Beware of Poisons

Elmore P. Jordan, Extension Agent

National Poison Prevention Week was observed March 20-26, 1977. During this week, there were a number of radio shows and two displays at King's Market and Wilbun's Market.

It is important that the people who use household poisons and lawn and garden poisons be knowledgeable of such uses. The points to consider are: know what is to be treated, (i.e. rats, bats, aphids, beetles, grubs in the lawn, moles) select a pesticide herbicide, insecticide, etc. that specifically mentions the pest, then read the label for uses. Be sure to use as directed on the label. After using pesticide, store or dispose of properly. Remember, store out of reach of children and know how to treat in case of contact with pesticide. The number of the Poison Control Center for our area is 846-6511 Ext. 203. If you suspect poisoning, contact your local doctor.
